

I am writing to let you know that my spouse and I are against any changes made to the telephone privacy act. We used to get 8-10 calls per day and now get a couple a week. It's very nice to know that when you're enjoying the evening with your children and the phone rings, it's not a telemarketer. We also don't get calls after we're in bed for the night any longer. It's comforting!
